Self-organization, also called (in the social sciences) spontaneous order, is a process where some form of overall order arises from local interactions between parts of an initially disordered system. The process is spontaneous, not needing control by any external agent. It is often triggered by random fluctuations, amplified by positive feedback. The resulting organization is wholly ...

A dissipative system is a thermodynamically open system which is operating out of, and often far from, thermodynamic equilibrium in an environment with which it exchanges energy and matter.. A dissipative structure is a dissipative system that has a dynamical regime that is in some sense in a reproducible steady state. This reproducible steady state may be reached by natural evolution of the ...

In the course of evolution nature developed materials based on organic-inorganic nanocomposites with complex, hierarchical organization from Angstroms to millimeters tailored via molecular self-assembly.[1-3] Such materials possess outstanding stiffness, toughness, and strength related to their low density, while the mechanical characteristics of their underlying constituents are rather ...

Francis Crick himself has become much less enthusiastic about the RNA world than Watson. In 1973, he and another eminent researcher into the origin of life, Leslie E. Orgel, published a paper advocating the theory called "Directed Panspermia". In 1981, Crick published Life Itself, a whole book about that theory. And by 1993 he says, "It may turn out that we will eventually be able to see how ...

Q. Can an ambient air respirator be used in environments that are Immediately Dangerous to Life and Health (IDLH)? A. No. The only options in an IDLH environment are a pressure demand airline respirator with an escape bottle or a Self-Contained Breathing Apparatus (SCBA). Ambient air pumps should only be used in locations containing at least 19.5% oxygen.
